

FARMING ON THE EDGE

Sprawling Development Threatens America's Best Farmland

Maine

High-quality farmland areas have relatively large amounts of prime or unique farmland. High-development areas have relatively rapid loss of high-quality farmland to development. Other areas do not meet the two threshold tests. The relative measures compare sub-county areas against their respective statewide averages.

American Farmland Trust
www.farmland.org

